FOREWORD

The Indians always left a record of their great accomplishments and battles upon tablets of stone and parchment. Likewise we published this third volume of the Pow-Wow, which portrays the school life and records the events of the year that in the future will be one of the gateways to the past.

We have meant no offense with our humorous sketches and jokes and hope you will overlook our mistakes, because in making this book we have done our best.

DEDICATION

As was the custom of the Indians to dedicate their lives to the unseen forces that helped them to be successful in their battles, we, the Class of 1924, do affectionately dedicate this third volume of The Pow-Wow to a visible force, our beloved friend and Principal, Mr. Alexander, who has been the means of bringing our four years of battling to a victory.

THE COMMUNITY HIGH SCHOOL

VERY nearly all communities in this country have high schools. Most of them have four year high schools. That is well. It means that every boy and girl can add to native ability to do things well that training which broadens the outlook on life, which tends to make better citizens, which helps to prepare better for life work, and which raises the individual standards of living. A high school that is really a great asset to the community is one that is growing. It may and usually does grow in numbers; growth in numbers is not an essential characteristic of growth. The school must grow in its efficiency and the facilities offered its pupils. In order to grow the high school must have the backing of the community and the pupils must show good school spirit.

The community must believe in the school. This faith is exhibited in a number of ways. The school has the enthusiastic backing of the community in all of its extra class activities. Patrons give hearty support to the teachers in their efforts to maintain a high standard of scholarship and proper conduct on the part of the pupils in school. The community expects the Board of Education to pay sufficient salaries to secure and retain a corps of teachers who know their work, who like their profession, who are loyal to the school, who cooperate with each other, with the Board of Education and the community, and who believe thoroughly in promoting good spirit among the pupils. The Board of Education is supported in its efforts to provide proper equipment in order that the work of the school may be highly efficient. Such a school has a high rank with other high schools and a high standing with higher institutions of learning. The community backing such a school likes to know that it has a wide-awake Board of Education, that its school has a reputation for efficient work, for an efficient faculty, for efficient equipment. The community is proud of the attainments of its pupils in extra class activities. But such a community is never satisfied with present attainments. Improvement is demanded.

If a high school deserves the full support of the community the pupils must show good school spirit. Good school spirit calls for loyalty to the school in all of its extra class activities such as athletics, music, art, plays, and school annals. Good school spirit means a desire and a willingness to work to get the most out of the opportunities offered in the class room; it means a willingness to boost for the school at all times and places; willingness to protect the character and reputation of the school both in and outside the community; a willingness to promote a feeling of good comradeship among all the pupils; a willingness to make adjustment in conduct and attitude so that the school may be of the utmost help to all; a willingness to assume the responsibility of helping raise the standard of the school in conduct and scholarship. School spirit is helped by a body of loyal and helpful alumni. A good school in time will have such alumni.

Is Windsor Community High School a real asset to this community? If not let us strive to make it so. If it is, let us strive to keep it so.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

N September, 1920, fifty-nine pupils were added to the roll of Windsor Community High School. We were initiated into the good fellowship of the school, with the due pomp and ceremony, and, as with all Freshmen classes, we soon learned to enjoy our enviable position. During that year we distinguished ourselves in the class rooms.

While we were Sophomores, we became famous in athletics and in music. For this reason, and the fact that we were the largest class enrolled in W. C. H. S., we became very important in the school activities.

Our Junior year was a great success. Our athletic prowess and musical ability was greatly augmented, and our dramatical attainments reached the limelight. We entertained our companions, the Seniors, with a banquet that was said to be the greatest in the history of W. C. H. S.

As our Senior year comes to an end, our hearts are heavy, for we cannot bear to think that we shall no longer share the joys and cares, the victories and defeats, the achievements, the anticipations, and the glory of our old school. But, when we look back over our record, we feel cheered to think of the good we have wrought, and we sincerely hope that it may serve as a lodestone for the future under-classmen who may have the honor of serving our beloved W. C. H. S.

Now, with the permission of my readers, I should feel relieved if I may be allowed to unburden myself of some secrets that have been bothering me for many weary months. I hope no one will bother to ask how I have been able to keep the following quotations of my classmates secret, for I could not assure you of an answer.

"I do hope I won't forget the opening and closing sentences of my speech this morning. They sound so intellectual."—Corwin Hamilton.

"I'd like to know why Clarence R. talks to me the way he does. He's so hard to fathom, that I can't tell when he's flattering and making fun of me."—Omah Barnett.

"I can't decide whether I'll study for grand opera, attempt play-writing, or get married."—Hazel Clawson.

"I wonder where my compact has gone? My nose is shining right in my eyes."—Lottie Elliott.

"The boys here aren't half as attentive as they are at Stewardson. That's why I don't like Windsor as well as my home town."—Opal Quigle.

"I don't know whether I care anything for the boys or not. I used to think I knew all about them, but I'm not so sure."—Genevieve Edwards.

"I don't think dark-haired boys are half as attractive as the blondes."—Iva Dean Krummel.

"Dark, though it may seem,

To me, life's one great dream."—Frances Hood.

"I wonder where that boy is that said I was so charming? I must find him."—Virginia Richardson.

"I don't know whether to let one girl run my life or not. Yesterday I thought not, but today I feel as if I might."—Wilbur Bence.

"Maudine's all right,

But Evelyn's better."—Eugene Jackson.

"I am certainly in a terrible mixup. A boy just asked me to go to the show with him, and I accepted his invitation. Now, I've forgotten who it was."—Ruth Wilson.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of 1924, of Windsor Community High School, in the State of Illinois, County of Shelby, being of sound mind, and memory, and knowing the extent, and value of our property, and the relation those bear to us, who are entitled to our bounty, do hereby make and declare this to be our last will, and testament, on the twelfth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

To the Junior Class, we bequeath our row of seats next to the North Windows, and it is our desire that the ink wells be unmolested.

To the Sophomore Class, we bequeath enough of our ability to enable them to live up to their Class Motto.

To the Freshman Class, we bequeath Miss Smith as their little (?) Botany teacher.

To the Faculty as a whole, a class that will obey their weekly rules as well as the class of 1924.

Individually we bequeath to Mr. Alexander a Physics Class, which can prove that a closed pipe is one-fourth of a wave length.

To Miss Smith, the power to keep all of the boys and girls at arm's length.

To Mr. Dunscomb, another lady teacher to be his associate in the assembly.

To Mr. Ready, a wheelbarrow for hauling kindling and note books home; also a book on "How to Operate a Radio."

To Miss Gustafson, a voice that she can't lose during basket ball tournaments.

To Miss Hartman, a janitor whom she can depend on keeping the sewing room door closed during her absence.

To Miss Flashtemeyer, a Freshman class that will have enough patience in class to permit only one to talk at a time.

To Miss Baker, a revised edition of Ward's Sentence and Theme; also the privilege to give F's in English.

To Miss Garvin, a Glee Club that will keep quiet only when singing.

In order to show our love and appreciation for the Juniors, we bequeath the following articles to them as individuals:

To Fred Bundy: A special train to take him away from Windsor, silently.

To Daisy Rankin: Hazel Clawson leaves her singing career.

C

To Glenn Bennett: The right to go frolicking.
To Helen Smith: Viola Munson bestows her independence.
To Ola Elliott: Theodore Hartsell leaves his superior knowledge.
To Otto Tietze: A Windsor girl so he may save many trips to neighboring towns.
To Opal Jackson: "To Have and to Hold"—a man.
To Geneva Storm: Orma Finley leaves her pretty hair.
To Mabel Jones: Kenneth Baker bequeaths his vocabulary, with instructions how it should be used.
To Don Walden: A blonde school teacher.
To Chick Webb: The honor of being basket ball captain of 1924 and 1925.
To Glenn Hart: We bestow Ernie Jones' graceful walk.
To Lawrence Gray: John Edwards leaves his quiet manner.
To Ray Hall: The privilege of talking to Bertha Griffin.
To Mildred Clem: A basket ball captain.
To Ada Kirk: The ability to make high grades in her Senior year as she has in her former years.
To Casey Duncan: We bequeath Mildred—bacon and eggs.
To Mildred Grant: The honored position of being pianist for the Glee Club.
To Bertha Griffin: Virginia Richardson's fairy-like complexion and sweet disposition.
To Lawrence Juhnke: A little more dignity so he may be classed with a "sweet girl" graduate.
To Mabel Rawlings: Ruth Rankin's length.
To Roy Finley: The ability to persuade Vivian to always part her hair in the middle.
To Carl Linder: A new Ford.
To Esther Webb: A diploma.
To Alice Shadows: Genieve Edwards leaves her mischievous ways.
To the under-classmen we desire to devise and bequeath the following:
To Arland Nihiser: The privilege to be chief cook and bottle washer in Richards' Cafe; also a back seat in the Electric Theatre.
To Mildred Lovins: Ruth Walker's everlasting vampish look at Jobie.
To Earl Davidson: A seat in the Junior row so he may sit close to Elizabeth.
To Thomas Richardson: An extra session each day in order for him to devote more time to the girls.
To Vivian Harmann: Roy's consent to talk to Ralph Robertson.
To Wilda Grider: The nine hundred thirteen wads of gum chewed by Vivian Harmann.
To Ruth Linville: Clara Smith leaves her indifference to masculine society.
To Wayne Shelton: The janitor's voice.
To Mary Elizabeth Gilbert: The right to slap every one who crosses her path.
Therefore, we declare this to be our last will and testament.

SIGNED: The Senior Class.

WITNESSES: The Faculty.

Corwin—"Well, here is part of our little party. Wonder why Russell isn't here?"

Virginia—"Oh, give him time. Perhaps he is composing another song."

Frances—"Have you heard his latest song?"

Virginia—"No, what is it?"

Frances—"I'm Forever Dreaming of You." It's a dreamy song just like he used to sing when he went to high school."

(Russell enters.)

Russell—"Hello, folks! Am I late?"

Corwin—"No, not very."

Russell—"I was so busy, I didn't know it was so late. It certainly seems good to be with some of my old classmates once more."

Genevieve—"It sure does; but we'll excuse you this time for being late, as this is the first time we have been together for so long."

Frances—"Oh, have you heard the latest?"

All—"No."

Frances—"Why, Theodore Hartsell has been nominated for governor of Illinois. They say he has a good chance of being elected."

Virginia—"I'm not at all surprised, are you? Viola Munson is running for U. S. Senate."

Corwin—"Yes, and Cecil Jones is a lawyer. His office is in Cairo.

Genevieve—"And do you know that Kenneth Baker has become a doctor? He is in a mining town in Southern Indiana. They say he wears out two Fords a year."

Frances—"I'm certainly glad to hear that. To become a doctor was always his greatest ambition."

Russell—"I was talking to Hazel Clawson and Marie Storm the other day in Buffalo, New York."

Frances—"Hazel is singing, I suppose."

Russell—"Oh, yes, she was going to give a concert there that night. Marie is her accompanist. She also plays the violin."

Virginia—"Where is Lauren Elam now?"

Corwin—"Oh, he is a cartoonist in Chicago."

Genevieve—"Yes, I've seen several of his cartoons in The Chicago Tribune."

Russell—"Didn't Bertha Conrad and Juanita Rose go to a nurses' training school?"

Frances—"Yes, Juanita is head nurse in Washington Square Hospital."

Russell—"Where is Bertha?"

Frances—"I was just going to tell about her. She was nursing an old man, and he fell in love with her. Just before he died, she married him and he willed her all his wealth."

Corwin—"I suppose she's spending it?"

Frances—"Oh, yes, she travels most of the time."

Genevieve—"Speaking of traveling makes me think. Do you know that Ruth Cecil is married?"

Virginia—"Why, no. Did she marry a Windsor boy?"

Genevieve—"Oh, no. You remember she moved to Decatur right after she graduated. Well, she married a musician, whose name is Robert Vancouver. They went to Hawaii on their honeymoon."

Russell—"I suppose she is happy now, if she can sing at her heart's content."

Frances—"Talking about Ruth Cecil made me think. What became of the other red-headed Ruth in the Senior class? Ruth Walker, you know."

Genevieve—"Oh, she and Wilbur were married right after they graduated. Wilbur is an architect."

Virginia—"Oh, say, do you know that John Clawson is married? He was appointed ambassador to Spain and fell in love with a little Spanish maiden and married her."

Corwin—"I'll give John my best wishes."

Genevieve—"I'm really surprised. John never did seem to care for the girls when he went to high school."

Frances—"Didn't any of the Class of '24 become a teacher but me?"

Russell—"Oh, yes. I got a letter from Clarence Robb the other day. He is the principal of old W. C. H. S."

Corwin—"Good for Clarence! I suppose he is teaching Physics?"

Russell—"Yes, and he said that Ruth Augenstein is teaching English there too."

Genevieve—"Is Coach Dunscomb still in Windsor?"

Russell—"Oh, no. He stayed there until about two years ago, then Ernie Jones took his place. Ernest's team won the state tournament last year."

Frances—"Velma Rentfrow is teaching Home Economics in Richmond, Virginia."

Genevieve—"Thelma Ross is dean of a girl's college in Colorado. She has been there for three years."

Virginia—"What are all the Stewardson people, that came to Windsor to take their senior year, doing now?"

Corwin—"Alva Patterson is the proprietor of a hotel in Washington, D. C."

Frances—"Ora Fritz graduated from the U. of I. and intended to teach mathematics, but she married a farmer down by Stewardson and lives on a farm."

Genevieve—"Oma Barnett is head bookkeeper in Chicago for Marshall Field Co."

Corwin—"Opal Quigle has been teaching school, but I heard she quit teaching and is to be married soon."

Russell—"By the way, do you know that Cobert Lugar and Barton Lovins have been to Africa?"

Virginia—"Goodness no. Are they missionaries?"

Russell—"Oh, no. Far from that. They captured a lot of wild animals and started an animal show. They are traveling in the west now."

Corwin—"Have you heard about John Edwards? Well, he invented a new kind of burglar alarm to be used on banks. They say it made him a cool million."

Frances—"Speaking of banks made me think. Kenneth Boling is the president of the First National Bank in Springfield, Illinois, and owns two sections of good land near there."

Genevieve—"Yes, and Maude Storm lives in Springfield. She runs a department store."

Virginia—"Do you know that Lottie Elliott and Opal Walker are dress designers? They have a shop of their own in Savannah, Georgia."

Frances—"Say, have you read Clara McCowell's latest book? It certainly is interesting. The title of it is, 'How to Hold a Husband'."

Genevieve—"Well, who is Clara McCowell?"

Frances—"Oh, why, don't you know that Clara Robison is married. She married a college professor. Clara writes books, and gives lectures most of the time."

Russell—"Do you know that Lucille Jones is home on a furlough?"

Corwin—"On a furlough? Where has she been?"

Russell—"Why, she's a missionary in China. She has been there about five years and this is the first time she has been home."

Genevieve—"Is Robert Neighbor home from Europe yet?"

Virginia—"Europe? Why, has Robert been to Europe?"

Genevieve—"Yes, didn't you know it? He has been going to school over there. After he graduated from W. C. H. S., he went to the U. of I., and graduated from there, then he graduated from Yale. He's been studying in Europe for three years. I think he's intending to teach Mathematics in college."

Virginia—"Maurine Wallace is in England."

Frances—"Is she going to school, too?"

Virginia—"Oh, no. She went over there to take music. She wasn't over there very long until she captured a duke and married him."

Genevieve—"Oh, say, do you know that Neva Rankin is in the movies? She was the leading lady in 'Two Loves.' I saw it, and it was fine."

Russell—"I saw in the paper the other day, that Marcia Varner was in Alabama on a lecture tour. She has gone into politics and is traveling all over the United States making speeches."

Corwin—"Where is Clara Smith? Clara and Marcia used to be together so much, you know."

Frances—"Why, Clara is the State Superintendent of Schools in Nevada."

Virginia—"Doesn't any of the Class of '24 live around Windsor?"

Genevieve—"Oh, yes. Gaylord Ripley is mayor of Windsor."

Frances—"And IvaDean Krummel and Oma Finley married the two Bence brothers. They live on adjoining farms south of Windsor."

Russell—"Clark Storm lives in Shelbyville and is farm adviser of Shelby county."

Virginia—"Where is Eugene Jackson?"

Corwin—"He lives north of Windsor and raises Poland China hogs."

Virginia—"Is he married?"

Corwin—"Oh, yes. Eugene and Evelyn were married soon after Brulah and I were married."

Frances—"What is Ruth Wilson doing?"

Virginia—"Why, she lives on the old homestead south-east of Windsor."

Genevieve—"Well, I guess that is about all of the Class of '24. I certainly have enjoyed this evening, and I shall expect all of you to take dinner with Jack and me tomorrow evening at six. We live on 1189 North Washington Street, you know. And Virginia, I will expect you to bring your friend, Mr. Baxton."

Russell—"We will certainly be there."

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU TAKE

A S Neil sat in the watch tower scanning the distant horizon for a possible forest fire, he wondered what the future might have in store for him, but not being able to arrive at any definite conclusion, he reverted to a review of his past life. His mother had passed to the great beyond when he was a mere lad at the age of ten. The many, many days following this sad event were the loneliest and dreariest he had ever known. Not more than three weeks after his graduation at the age of eighteen, his father passed on to his reward. Next his childhood home was snatched away to pay the mortgage on the farm; thus being left homeless and penniless, he sought employment in vain; finally he had been fortunate enough to get the job as forest fire scout after several weeks' persuading on his part.

Suddenly he saw what he thought was a cloud of smoke rise out of the forest directly west of the tower. As he was unable to ascertain correctly, he pushed the light aeroplane out upon the platform there above the treetops, and was soon speeding through the hot, sultry air.

The sky for many previous days had been as clear as a crystal. Not a single cloud ventured out of its path to navigate the blue fields above. The tyrannical sun had reigned supreme over this illimitable expanse. His very tyranny took away the much needed moisture from the roots of the fairest of plants upon mother earth, and left them to wilt and perish at his mercy. How happy the little plants would have been if some cloud had only chanced to shade their withered stems for a few fleeting seconds.

There had been no breeze to carry away the heat, but a faint, whispering current of air rustled the dry leaves of the dying trees. A number of ponderous airships, looking like mere specks, began to dot the southern horizon.

As the young officer drew nearer he could see flames leaping from tree to tree like a band of fleeing monkeys. He landed at a reasonable distance from the fire, and helped the other men move the power-driven saws, which were used to fell the trees in a circular path, described at about a distance of a quarter of a mile from the flames around them.

For a while it looked as if the fire would be kept confined within the inclosed area, but the sky had suddenly been overcast by clouds, accompanied by a strong gale, which, when it struck, carried burning leaves across the gap where numerous other fires immediately sprang up.

Neil stood gazing at this devastating spectacle for several precious minutes; not his precious minutes, but the precious minutes of another, which might spell her fate. "What if someone is in danger," he thought. He rushed to his plane, and was soon racing with the howling wind and the rearing fire, which he soon out-distanced. Just a short distance ahead of the fire ran a person who could not be seen on account of the foliage of the trees. The person disappeared and didn't reappear. The nose of the plane was pointed toward the ground where a hasty but safe landing was made. From there Neil could see the limp form of a girl lying under a tree, which had obstructed his sight. He hurried to her side, picked her up, and started to carry her to safety, but he happened to find a rippling little stream winding its way through a course no one knows how long. Here he washed with cool, refreshing water.

As he stooped over her, watching for the least sign of returning consciousness, the gasoline tank of his machine exploded. He looked up in time to see the remnants of the machine go flying through the air and leaving streaks of burning sparks.

behind them. His attention was diverted to the threatening clouds overhead, the black, boiling clouds which seemed to rumble with every move.

A touch on his arm caused him to look down. He was never so surprised in all his life, for instead of finding a helpless form, he found her standing by his side, and watching the same terrible scene.

"Have you any relatives who might be in danger?" he asked.

"No," she responded, feebly at first, but with apparently increasing strength. "I live alone, about half a mile north of here. My nearest neighbor lives about a mile farther on."

"You stay here while I go up there. I might possibly keep your home from burning. As you can easily see there are a number of fires across the stream now."

"Oh, no, no. What's an old shack worth compared to a human life? My parents lost their lives in an attempt to save the barn. They had practically succeeded when a bolt of lightning took away their lives."

"But I will take every precaution to ——."

A streak of lightning splintered a nearby tree. The following thunder made his last words inaudible. A stiff gale that up-rooted many trees was followed by torrents of rain, which gradually turned into a cold, chilly drizzle as the sky grew lighter. The fire was completely quenched.

"I'll go up your way to be sure that you are safe and to see if you still have a home, but if you object, I'll hurry back to my watch tower."

"If you don't mind, you can come up and have a lunch before going back. Besides traveling through this rain would not be pleasant."

The young people walked side by side along the path which was generally wide enough for one. The intense silence invited Neil to get better acquainted with this beautiful nymph. He would steal sidelong glances at her, noting especially her blonde hair, rosy cheeks, and playful mouth. He wanted to see her eyes but dared not watch too long for fear she might catch him in the act, and while he was looking in some other direction, she would note his features. As it happened neither had taken the privilege at the same time. The passion to see her eyes had kept Neil's attention too long or else his companion had looked too soon, but in either case or both, their glances collided. A beautiful blush stole swiftly over her charming face as she read the question in his eyes. Their fate was sealed.

LANG SU'S DREAMS

I tasted so deceiving. One didn't like to but yet,—yet one craved just a little more. My critical eye wandered speculatively about the room—my Chinese laundryman's turret at the top of the tower room. Why did my husband watch Lang Su so closely? Oh, well! perhaps it was just because he was a doctor. A doctor seems to always take a psychological view of a person. Ugh! What a stuffy little room. It is no wonder Lang Su is so drowsy and stupid so much. I do believe the foul air affects his brain instead of the perfectly horrid opium to which the doctor alludes as a likely cause of his incompetency. What a queer little round container I held in my hand, and its contents so salve-like, so odorless and tasteless. Ah! I had always heard that Chinese dens were cloaked in mystery.

I feel as if I were breathing incense and just floating dreamily into space. No, No.

H

W — Pow-Wow — C

I must have been lost in reverie just for a moment for here I am now in Chinese town. There I see a den and it looks so warm and cozy. I wonder if one could leave these sordid earthly things and soar to heights unknown only in visions in those delightfully cheery corners of a snug Chinese den. Just to have two or three lynx-eyed Chinamen moving stealthily about, drawing richly decorated velvet curtains and serving delicious hot tea in cunning china cups all piping hot.

What a tiny little door. Shall I knock? No. The door opens. Yes, Yes. It is all as I imagined. The very slight tea tables, such soft luxurious chairs. It is getting quite late. I should go home, but I feel powerless. I believe I should be unable to resist any force. But there was no need. "Sleepee a bedee," murmured a soft, purring voice. Instantly one side wall was rolled up and simultaneously a velvet couch glided imperceptibly into the room, from whose hands I knew not for I saw no one.

I had a perfect night for I slept divinely but morning is here. Where am I? In this queer little Chinese retreat. But the walls! They had been turned and were four large mirrors. As I sprang from my bed I experienced my direst agony. My once beautiful face was now rendered most hideous by tattooed figures. I now realized my position—a slave. Years, dreadful years have passed. My once golden hair is now white and shaggy. I am now an old hag, despised by all and an opium fiend. They are taking me away. Why? They tell me I am deranged. Here I am at an asylum. The warden is ascending the broad stairs. I rushed to meet him, but the sheriff tried to catch me. However, I resisted so they tied me. Why?

I have been here a long time. Sometimes it seems incredible that I should have a little daughter Alice at home. Sometimes I believe it's all a terrible dream. Is it possible that I just visioned my husband a doctor and my daughter just two years old?

A girl came into the asylum, passing out Bibles. She gave me one and after she was gone I opened it and on the flyleaf found these words, "Alice Franklin From Your Dear Father, H. H. Franklin."

Great sobs took possession of me when I realized how I really had a daughter and my grief was so great that I fell in a dead faint. When I returned to consciousness, the doctor and nurse were standing over me applying restoratives. Gradually I became better, but was then left alone. Happening to see the daily paper that some one had accidentally left I began to read under the heading: Twenty years ago was this paragraph printed:

"Mrs. H. H. Franklin's mysterious absence has been connected with the idea suicide, since her furs and purse were found on the wharf late yesterday evening."

"I believe she is awakening," I heard a voice exclaim. I awoke and stiffly tried to move. Over me were my husband, my little daughter Alice, and Lang Su.

"Is oo' wake mama?" cried little Alice. "We iss wait and wait."

"Yes, my darling," said my husband, "we have waited many hours, since Lang Su found you this morning."

"Oh, my horrid dream," I shivered.

"Forget it," he answered, thrusting a certain little container in the fire place. "If you feel better we will go down. Dinner is at six and Professor Holz, and the Opera Singer, Swane, are to dine with us. It is now five."

When at last I managed to get to my room, and as my husband left me, he whispered, "Better stay away from Lang Su's dreams."

"Yes," I answered wanly, "I lived through twenty years of torture, but—" I addressed weakly, "even that is not worth all the agonies of dreams of an opium eater."

A THANK YOU FROM THE SENIORS

Yes, we're Seniors, happy Seniors,
 And yet we don't forget
 That we have much more work to do
 Than we have ever done yet.
 For this is a beginning,
 And it is not an end;
 For most of us have years to live,
 To work and serve in friend.
 We do not get all the praise
 For this distinction you see.
 Others helped us a great deal,
 A good true Senior to be.
 Parents dear, we thank thee
 For keeping us in school,
 And for teaching us the value
 Of the good old golden rule.
 Teachers, we do not forget
 How you did your part,
 By teaching us and helping us;
 We thank thee from our hearts.
 Thanks to friends and classmates
 For loving word and deed
 That you gave so freely
 When we were in need.
 Too, we wish to thank you all,
 For helping us to stand
 With this jolly bunch of Seniors
 To all be members of this band.

THE LOYALTY OF OUR ALUMNI

T is not our purpose to flatter our honored alumni, but rather to praise those who firstly deserve it. Our graduates are unusual in many ways. Generosity, kindness, progressiveness stand out as a pre-eminent characteristic in their make-up. But, perhaps the most noticeable trait of all is their loyalty. Wherever you may be, you can always tell a Windsor Community High School graduate, for whenever the High School is mentioned, he is a booster. In remembrance of these

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

HOLE-HEARTED in all that we do. Yes, that is our motto, which we can live up to now that we are dignified Juniors. We started our fame when "Casey," our now famous basket-ball star, bade farewell to Effingham and came to live with us. "Chick," who had always been so inconspicuous now became prominent in the basket ball field. He and "Casey" were both named all-stars at the Moultrie County Tournament, as well as at the district tournament.

After the first few months of Junior preeminence Paul Clem decided he liked the farm best so accordingly he left our none-too-large number. We also have another gap in our ranks formed by the absence of our good-natured, lively little entertainer, Dorothy Wallace, who left us in January to brighten the corners in Rantoul. We give her our good wishes and hope she may get a sweet smile every day from all the boys she meets.

Some of the boys played "hooky" last fall and went to St. Louis, which is a long way from home for such young boys. We Juniors really mean well if all the others don't see it, especially Miss Smith who thinks we certainly live up to our motto when we all start talking at once.

Milton (Don) has won fame and renown, as speaker before the assembly, assistant yell leader and as Mrs. Coolidge in the "Womanless Wedding." There is no question but that his fame is as great to us as that of Milton, the poet.

Mildred and Casey are as affectionate as ever. We do not doubt but that one reason for our good luck during our basket ball season was due to Mildred, for as long as Casey knew Mildred was there he could roll up the score. Chick always played a good game when we went to Sullivan, which caused some to wonder, but not those who were wise, he had to show the Sullivan girls what he really could do, but now that the season is over he cares for nothing except one sweet smile from a little brown-eyed Senior each day.

"Music hath its charms" for Glenn since he has become leader of Mr. Tremaine's jazz orchestra and all the girls are wanting to join, but one thinks she can win more fame by singing "Oui Je u' ai pas de bananes" for the Parent-Teachers. Oh, yes, I just heard that Glenn and Carl were going west this summer as chief and doctor respectively of the Tomahawk Tribe of Indians. We hope they become famous and keep their scalps. As we have always been very ambitious Ola and Ada took charge of selling candy at the basket ball games. As the saying goes "The more you eat the more you want" but the Juniors failed to respond to the cry for more and the candy was all sold before half were supplied. Of course the Seniors thought the idea so brilliant and they accordingly replenished the stock at the next game.

Oh, yes! I just heard why Pete was not invited to the Senior Party. They were having light refreshments and were afraid of his ravenous appetite. Mabel Jones and Opal Jackson contributed to the success of our musical concert at Xmas time by singing special numbers. Alas! I thought we had been trying in vain but at last I see a very faint glimmer of hope in cheering Otto's lagging spirit. Being so little he didn't have much opportunity to show his ability as a basket ball player until Casey was unable to go to Sullivan and then he showed he was anything but "little." And such a disappointment as he had at the district tournament, poor little fellow, he made a beautiful long shot and the pistol cracked upon the air before the ball slipped gracefully through the basket.

Now that Maurine has her hair bobbed she can surely teach Lawrence how to use the marcelle waver to more advantage. My poetic brain just will not allow me to leave out these few short lines about Casey and Mildred, they are so poetically affectionate:

They met upon the highway,
They met upon the byway,
And when they didn't meet
They were together there upon the seat.

But an endless string of words going on and on will not express what we want to say, but here is a little rhyme which was composed especially for us Juniors and which will tell all:

In every day in every way
We grow smarter, smarter, smarter.

Class Historian—Ola Elliott.
Assistant—Daisy Rankin.

CLASS PLAY, "NEVER TOUCHED ME"

Given the latter part of April in the Gym of the High School with the following cast:

Doctor Digby, a young physician	Paul Duncan
John Cullen, a broker	Edward Webb
Professor Barrett, an experimental chemist	Ray Hall
Vanderberg, a broker who is broke	Don Walden
Bill the Butch, a burglar	Otto Tietze
Joyce Barrett, the Professor's daughter	Opal Jackson
Millie, Joyce's friend	Ada Kirk
Clancy, a cop	Lawrence Gray

SYNOPSIS

Edward Vanderberg, a wealthy son of a wealthy father, imagined that he was born to be a Napoleon of finance. His ambition in life was to startle Wall Street. He lost his entire fortune, however, through a cunning scheme of his partner, John Cullen.

H ————— 1924 ————— S

When the play opens Vanderberg is penniless, in debt, and in danger of arrest for sending fraudulent matter through the mail.

Bill the Butch appears just in time to offer Vanderberg a solution to the whole affair. Bill promises faithfully to "croak" Vanderberg in less than a year for the measly sum of one thousand dollars, to be taken out of his $10,000 life insurance policy.

Vanderberg meets Joyce Barrett and decides he will live for love and clear himself of debt without dying. Matters are much complicated as he must dodge Bill the Butch and the police, earn enough money to pay his debts and marry Joyce, all within twelve months.

Vanderberg, disguised as a stevedore, works at the docks and boards at Professor Barrett's. Cullen visits the Professor concerning an invention and discovers Vanderberg. Apparently Vanderberg is lost, as Cullen soon has a policeman at every door; but Joyce comes to the rescue.

Of course Vanderberg proves himself not guilty as charged, makes a couple million, pays back the money to Professor Barrett, marries Joyce, and everything.

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

SINCE I was again elected Historian of our class, I will now endeavor to write (with the assistance of my trusty aid, Ralph Robertson) the second installment of our eventful history. Out of about 69 last year we have about 53 left in our gang. Some of us are talented in art, theme writing, mathematics, and music. Some came for an education, some for fun.

We initiated the Freshies soon after school started. It was through the kindness of Miss Hartman (our class adviser) there wasn't a badly crippled bunch of Freshies. In the initiation we blindfolded them, led them around, upstairs, and down; on gently pricking the victims with them. Then enjoyed an aeroplane ride, and Margurite Barnhart was scared so badly that all the enamel was knocked off her teeth.

After that we played several games, told fortunes, then the eats were brought forth. We were divided into families, such as Irish Potato, Cucumber, Onion, Sweet Potato, Turnip. Some drew the parts of Mother, Father. Bob Neal drew mother, which made us split our sides laughing at him. After the eats several of the Sophs gave a good program. Then we sent the Freshies home to bed.

In the last semester we had another party. This was a Valentine party and was strictly for the Sophs. We had a good time, even if there was a shortage of boys. The decorations were simply scrumptious and we had a better time at this party than at the Freshy initiation.

We had a lively time, and were surprised in that respect, for the boys had been lectured before the party, and thus thought it would be a funeral. At this lecture we were given a mild (?) talking to concerning our manners—to tip our hats to the ladies, not to say "How-er-ye, Bill" to grown people, or to say "Hello, Bill" to an old man. Our wings began to grow immediately.

The next evening the girls had a meeting. The day after that there was a dim dark rumor going around to the effect that the girls had been told not to have Rudolf Valentino for their ideal, etc. (But perhaps this meeting was only to decide on the refreshments?)

This year we did a little better in athletics. "Bus" made the regular team, and helped bring some hard-fought victories home. Ralph Robertson, Raymond Robertson, and Clyde Abel also made the squad. We also have a Sophomore first team, a second team, and a "Midget" team. In the class tournament the Sophomores took second and fourth places.

To be continued next year.

Paul Moberley, Historian.
Ralph Robertson, Assistant.

HOW JIMMY TOOK HIS MEDICINE

"Aw maw," said the small boy, "I don't wanna take any castor oil."

"Now honey," said his long suffering mother, "Don't you want to take some medicine and be great big and strong? Maybe if you take this, when you grow up you'll be a basket ball player."

"Will I be strong like Bus?"

"Yes honey, take your medicine."

"Ma, I don't wanna be like Bus."

"Now listen, you take your medicine and I'll give you some peaches to take the taste out."

"Ma, Bus likes peaches cause I heard him say, 'Dad Bum if I don't like Peachy.'"

"He meant his sweet-heart dear."

"Oh, if I take my medicine will I have a sweet-heart?"

"Yes, Jimmy, you will."

"Then I don't believe I take it."

"Now Jimmy, you just wait till daddy comes, and he'll make you. Besides don't you want to be like Chick and Patterson?"

"I'd rather be like Corwin, ma. I like his hair. I heard Genevieve say she liked it too. I heard Mabel Jones say she thought Chick was a regular Sheik. What'd she mean?"

"That she thought he was nice."

"Mom, Frances Hood thinks he's nice too. I heard her say so, and ma, I heard something else too. I heard Fleeta say Patterson was tall, but she liked tall men. Do you like tall men, ma?"

"Now stop that foolishness and take your medicine."

"Did Bus take it?"

"Yes, he did."

"Did Patterson?"

"Yes, if you take it you'll be strong just like them, and be on the all-star team in the tournament."

"Honest, ma?"

"Honest."

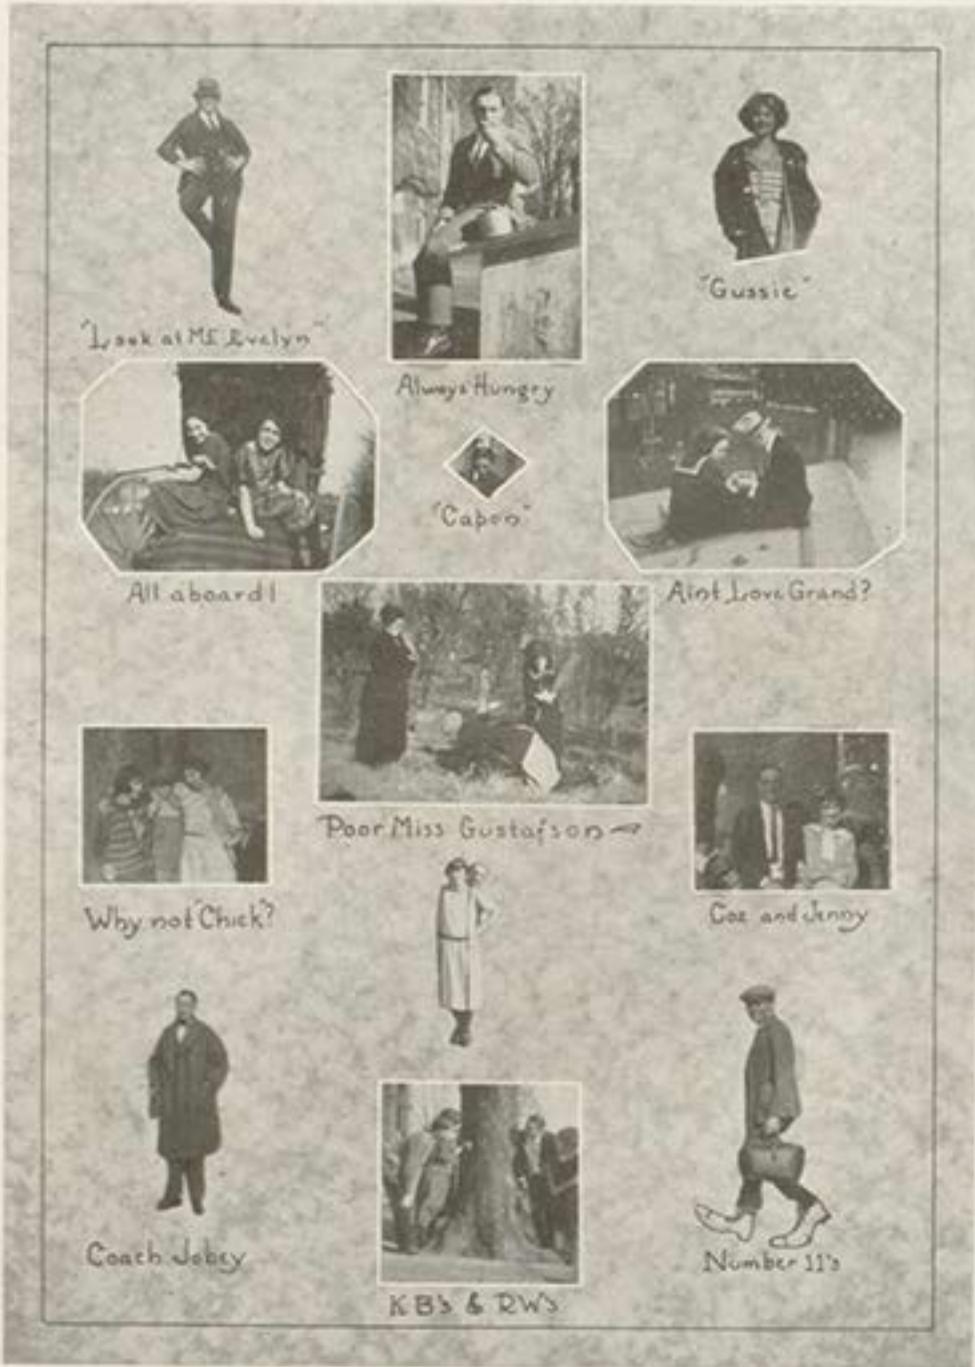

"Well, hurry up; I guess I'll take it."

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

We started out with many
We have left now, just a few,
But just you think of the wonderful things
This Freshman class can do.
We're privileged characters in this high school.
The teachers all love us so,
That every little thing we do,
Right out of class we go.

In October the Sophs gave a party
To us Freshmen, whom they thought green,
And we provided such amusements,
That it made them laugh? No, scream!
We were about the noisiest bunch
That ever hit the gym,
And when you spoke you couldn't hear
Above our merry din.
We have some really wonderful folks
In this noted Freshman class,
There's Wayne and Carlyle and others
That you can't expect to surpass.
Now Carlyle is more fun than a monkey;
Most people call him "Goof,"
And when he begins to play his pranks,
We nearly raise the roof.
And Wayne has a voice like Lincoln's,
We heard the professor say.
Perhaps he'll be a great statesman
On account of his voice, someday.
Our class, too, has a basket ball team,
And they can do their stuff.
They bring home the bacon every time,
If the other team does play rough.
Miss Smith must not be forgotten;
She's the favorite o. us all.
Next to Mr. Alexander
She's boss of Assembly Hall.
We must remember our class adviser,
Miss Flachtemeier, by name,
And wouldn't it certainly surprise her
If she didn't get all the blame.
The subjects we study in high school
Are English, History, and Algebra, too,
Physiology, Geography and Latin;
They give us enough to do.
Now we're waiting for the spring-time
When all our tests are o'er,
When we'll lay aside our books,
And study them no more.
Till next fall when we enter high school
We will be in the second year
Of cramming our heads with knowledge
To help in our future career.

THE SILENT WATCH

Far away in the silent north
 A prince of the Pawnee waits;
 Waits for the girl that he cannot wed,
 For the color of tribes separates.
 She is of the pale face;
 He of the silent red host;
 And he loves this pale, fair daughter
 Of the king of the trading post.
 But his love was spurned by her father;
 He scorned those of his race,
 And he said, "Be gone, dark warrior;
 Come not again to this place."
 Then he sent his fair, young daughter
 To a far and distant mount
 Where not even an Indian's cunning
 Could ever seek her out.
 The girl from her lofty dwelling
 Waits ever for him to come;
 But she knows that it is useless
 At the setting of every sun.
 And there in the unbroken silence,
 In the land of ice and snow,
 He is hopelessly watching and waiting;
 Dreaming of days long ago.

AND PETE PAID THE BILL

"Do you know what I seen took place down at Hugh Rose's th' other day? No? Well, hizzen, Jake. Ya know those three bob haired teachers? Yes, those three and the team with the Coach were down there at Hugh Rose's."

"Yep, it was the night of the Neoga game 'bout quarter ta five an' I guess they were gettin' somethin' ta eat before they went to Neoga—the teachers I mean. Well, one of 'em—the one with the bobbed hair—I mean the black hair—that is the straight haired one with the Mona Lisa eyes—she gets up an' passes up ol' Hugh like a princess would a toad. When she gits ta the door she hollers back, "Pay my bill fer me, will ya?" Right then and there a fight begun about who was she atalkin' to.

"The fight sifted down to a regular one between 'Pete' and 'Jobie'. I don't know eggssactly how it did happen but Hugh takes 'Pete's' two-bits, and boy, ya ought to seen his grin.

ACCOUNTS OF GAMES

The basket ball season opened with a great many contestants out battling for a place on the squad. The team played twenty-seven games this season, winning twenty-two, with a total of six hundred and two points to their opponents' three hundred twenty-five, an average score of twenty-two to twelve. This season has been a record breaker for the Windsor quintet, defeating every team they met with the exception of Morrisonville. The games were as follows:

33 STRASBURG 4

The season was opened with an easy victory of thirty-three to four. This was rather unexpected for the first game, because Strasburg had held the Neoga five to an over-time game the week before. Webb grabbed the honor of making the goal of the season. Scoring: Duncan, f, 15 points; Nihiser, f, 4; Webb, c, 11; Patterson, g, 0; Hamilton, g, 0.

36 STEWARDSON 16

The Windsor lads went into this game a little over-confident, but after they saw what they were against they began to play ball and from then until the game was ours. Scoring: Duncan, f, 14; Nihiser, f, 8; Webb, c, 14; Patterson, g, 0; Hamilton g, 0.

W

Pow-Mow

17 SULLIVAN 4

Sullivan was an easy mark for Coach Dunscomb's boys even if the Strasburg stars do play with the visitors. They were only able to cage the ball two times during the game. These being long shots by Hamm. The good friendship between Sullivan and Windsor is still maintained. Scoring: Duncan, f, 8; Nihiser, f, 2; Webb, c, 7; Patterson, g, 0; Hamilton, g, 0; Robertson, 0.

32 NEOGA 6

W. C. H. S. copped off another victory from the Neoga five. The visitors had beautiful floor work but when they came up to the Windsor defence it all faded away. The locals only allowed the visitors to get one field goal, leaving Windsor with a safe lead. Scoring: Duncan, f, 9; Nihiser, f, 12; Webb, c, 11; Patterson, g, 0; Hamilton, g, 0; Robertson, f, 0.

10 STEWARDSON 5

Oh, what a surprise! You could hear all kinds of exclamations from the Windsor fans as they entered the door of the great arena at Stewardson. Windsor played her five largest men so as to give the substitutes plenty of room on the sidelines. This was a lucky win for the Windsor five, considering everything. Scoring: Duncan, f, 5; Patterson, c, 4; Webb, f, 1; Jones, g, 0; Hamilton, g, 0.

15 ALTAMONT 18

The W. C. H. S. cagers met their first defeat when they went to Altamont. This was no dishonor because Altamont has never lost a game on her own floor. Scoring: Duncan, f, 8; Nihiser, f, 5; Webb, c, 2; Patterson, g, 0; Hamilton, g, 0.

24 EFFINGHAM 6

Another feather in our hat! The Windsor five journeyed to Effingham and handed them a nice defeat of 24 to 6. Nihiser showed his stuff by coming through with six field goals. Scoring: Duncan, f, 9; Nihiser, f, 15; Webb, c, 0; Hamilton, g, 0; Patterson, g, 0.

21 CHRISMAN 7

This was quite a shock to the fast Chrisman five when they received their first defeat by Windsor. The Chrisman boys went into the game a little over-confident. The game was close until the half, then the Windsor lads started their clock work and left Chrisman with the short end of the score. Scoring: Duncan, f, 13; Nihiser, f, 3; Webb, c, 2; Patterson, g, 3; Hamilton, g, 0.

27 ALUMNI 8

This game was rather amusing because the old stars really thought they could hold the regular five down. The first quarter was close but after that the Alumni began to show their many weak points. Duncan hurt his knee in this game and was replaced by Boling. Scoring: Duncan, f, 11; Nihiser, f, 9; Webb, c, 6; Patterson, g, 0; E. Jones, g, 0; Boling, f, 0.

15 SULLIVAN 7

Sullivan was not equal to the Windsor lads even if Duncan, our right hand man, was out on account of his crippled knee. Tietze took Casey's place and did well. Hamilton received a blow in the warming-up practice which fractured his cheek bone. He played the entire game, however. Scoring: Nihiser 7, Webb 5, Tietze 3, Hamilton 0, Patterson 0.

16 FINDLAY 17

The Windsor five received their second defeat of the season at Findlay. Duncan was in poor shape because of his knee and Hamilton was out because of his fractured check bone. Jones played a nice game at guard. Scoring: Duncan 5, Nihiser 7, Webb 4, Jones 0, Patterson 0.

34 PANA 13

Pana was an easy mark for Windsor. They were considerably handicapped by our small floor. Johnson of Pana showed lots of skill and was the main man of the team. At that he was far below Duncan when it came to caging the ball. Scoring: Duncan 19, Nihiser 7, Webb 8, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0.

14 NEOGA 9

The ever-dangerous Duncan played this game. He had the honor of making the 14 points. The opponents tried to slow him by running new men in but failed. The Neoga boys fought hard all the way through with visions of victory before them. Scoring: Duncan 14, Webb 0, Nihiser 0, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0.

MOULTRIE COUNTY TOURNAMENT

Windsor was again invited to the Moultrie County Tournament. The drawings placed Windsor against Sullivan in the second game of the evening on Jan. 25. The team was transported over muddy roads but showed no effects of the bad trip when they appeared on the floor. There were a number of faithful fans who accompanied the team and they made lots of noise. Lovington and Arthur played the first game of the evening but Windsor and Sullivan furnished the fire-works for the large number of fans. The Gold and Blue defeated Sullivan by a score of 26 to 15. Lovington won their game, thus putting them against Windsor in the championship battle.

The Windsor-Lovington game was not very interesting because the Lovington team was beaten before they came on the floor. Windsor won 31-7 and thus brought home the shield. Sullivan took third place by beating Arthur.

This makes the second time in as many years that Windsor has brought home the honors. Paul Duncan was chosen as forward, Edward Webb as center and Alva Patterson as guard on the all-county team. Duncan also had the honor of being high scorer of the tournament.

Scoring in the Sullivan-Windsor game: Duncan 15, Nihiser 5, Webb 6, Hamilton 0, Patterson 0.

Windsor-Lovington game: Duncan 11, Nihiser 11, Webb 8, Patterson 1, Hamilton 0.

12 FINDLAY 11

This was a scream! The gym was packed to capacity. The game was fast and close and largely defensive. Windsor started off with a 4-1 lead but Findlay soon caught up. The last three minutes seemed a century and it was a happy Windsor crowd when the pistol cracked. Scoring: Duncan 2, Webb 5, Nihiser 5, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0.

29 EFFINGHAM 12

This game was easy compared with the one the night before with Findlay. Scoring: Duncan 18, Nihiser 5, Webb 4, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0, Jones 0, Tietze 1.

28 BETHANY 18

Coach Dunscomb's boys had little trouble in defeating the Decatur district champions on their own floor. Scoring: Duncan 10, Webb 10, Nihiser 8, Hamilton 0, Patterson 0.

29 ALTAMONT 23

We turned the table. Altamont had beaten Windsor there but they lost here. Aderman of Altamont was the mainstay of their team. He and Duncan both looked good. Scoring: Duncan 16, Nihiser 5, Webb 8, Hamilton 0, Patterson 0.

16 PANA 17

This was a sad scene for the 100 fans who journeyed to Pana. This was Windsor's

HS

W Pow-Wow C

20th game and only two had been lost before it. Scoring: Duncan 6, Webb 6, Nihiser 4, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0.

17 ASSUMPTION 13

This looked like another defeat until the last four minutes when Webb broke loose and scored four baskets. Scoring: Duncan 4, Nihiser 3, Webb 10, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0.

32 BETHANY 16

This game started out close due to over-confidence on Windsor's part. Windsor soon took the bit in their teeth and chalked up enough points to put the game on ice so the remainder of the contest was easy. Scoring: Duncan 15, Nihiser 4, Webb 13, Jones 0, Hamilton 0.

29 ASSUMPTION 10

The Gold and Blue were not playing in good form in this game but they were far superior to Assumption at that. Scoring: Duncan 9, Webb 11, Nihiser 9, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0, Jones 0.

SECOND TEAM GAMES

The W. C. H. S. Seconds also had a successful season. Many of the boys give promise for next year.

17 STRASBURG 7

This was easy. Strasburg was handicapped by lack of a practice floor. Scoring: Tietze 8, Robertson 4, Ray Robertson 0, Boling 5, Clawson 0, Linder 0, Jones 0, Gray 0.

23 STEWARDSON 13

The South-downers could not come up with the reserves. This game was played on Saturday afternoon. Most of the reserves had had a good workout in Pana that morning when they scrimmaged the first team. Scoring: Tietze 4, Robertson 10, Boling 4, Linder 4, Storm 0, Clawson 0, Jones 0, Ray Robertson 1.

DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

The first game for Windsor in the Tournament at Pana was with Taylorville on Thursday, March 6. Our team had never met this team during the season, so they did not know what to expect.

Webb did well in holding Goff of Taylorville, who was the man they depended on in their contests.

This game was won by Windsor by a score of 20 to 11. Scoring: Duncan 9, Webb 6, Nihiser 5, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0.

Windsor showed her colors again Friday night in the first game of the evening session. This game was with Pana, who had beaten Windsor in the regular schedule game on their floor, so it was doubtful who would be the victors of the contest in the tournament. Windsor came out with long end of a 13 to 10 score. Scoring: Duncan 3, Webb 1, Nihiser 9, Hamilton 0, Patterson 0.

The defeating of Pana put Windsor in the semi-finals. The rest of the tournament was well attended by Windsor fans. Windsor met Morrisonville on Saturday afternoon. This was a heart smasher. Morrisonville defeated Windsor by a count of 23 to 16. Scoring: Duncan 8, Nihiser 5, Webb 2, Patterson 0, Hamilton 1.

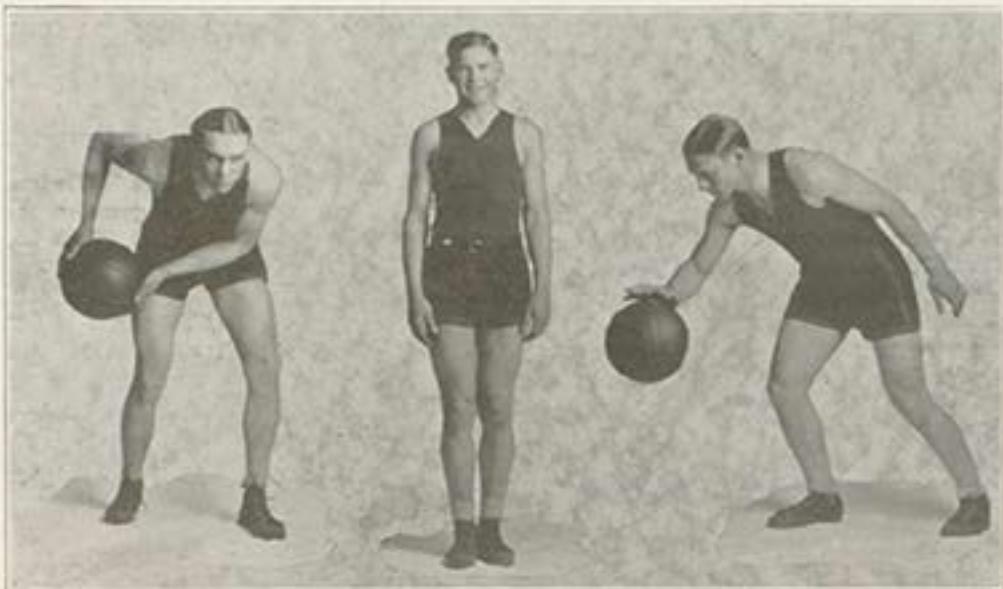

Windsor shone again Saturday night but not half so bright. Windsor and Findlay met in first game for third and fourth places. Windsor was defeated, taking fourth place. Scoring: Duncan 4, Webb 6, Nihiser 0, Patterson 0, Hamilton 0, Jones 0, Tietze 0, Boling 0.

THE COACH

The most of the success and honor accorded our team is due to our coach, Mr. Dunscomb. This was his third year in the Windsor school, where he has put out a stronger team each year. We hope he will be with you again next year and help to gain even greater honors for Windsor Community High School.

PAUL DUNCAN, '25, Forward, Captain.

The showing made by Duncan last year gained him the honor of being Captain this year. He has filled his position well, and has brought his team through with greater honors than any Windsor team has gained in the past. He was selected on the all-county team both years he played; also as second all-star in Shelbyville Tournament and chosen on the all-star team at Pana this year. He proved himself one of the most valuable men on the team.

EDWARD WEBB, '25, Center, Captain Elect.

Chick proved very valuable last year in the games, and has proven even more so this season. He has been selected as all-star for every position on the team, as forward, center, guard. He has been elected captain of the team for next year. Great work is expected of him.

ARLAND NIHISER, '26, Forward.

This was Buster's first year. He is young and did not hold up under the strain as did the other boys, but he did exceptionally well in all the games he played. He has good scoring ability, and covers the floor well. He also has a knack for getting sleepers under the basket. Much is expected of Arland in his next two years.

CORWIN HAMILTON, '24, Guard.

Corwin has been very faithful to the team in the preceding years as a substitute.

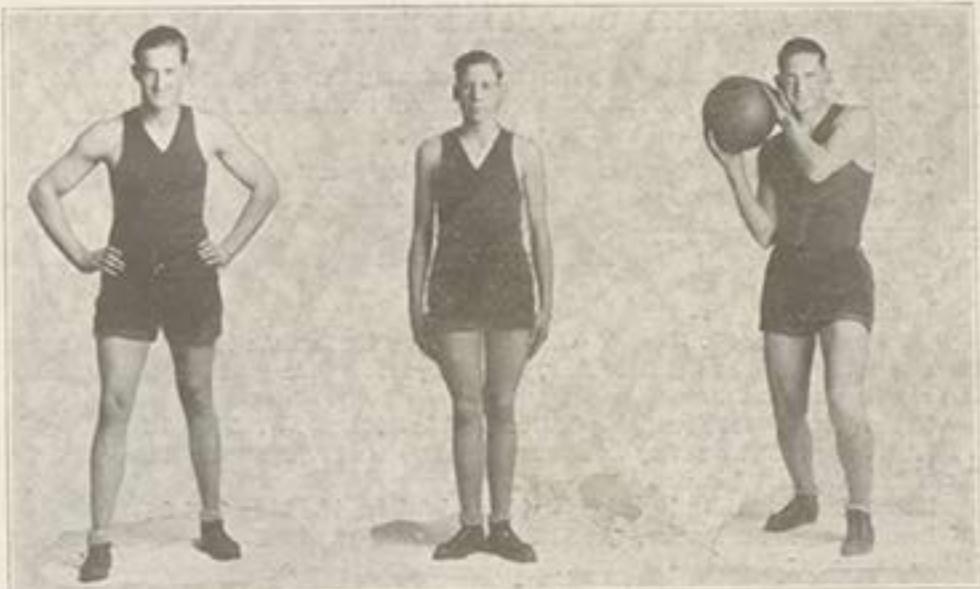

H

Patterson

But this year he gained a place as one of the regular five. He was a good defense man, he had ability to cover his share of the floor and to get rid of the ball in short time. He made very few fouls which is unusual for a guard in his position. This is Corwin's last year and we regret that he can't be with us next year.

ALVA PATTISON, '24, Guard.

This was Alva's first year on the Windsor team; he had played with Stewardson in the years before. Alva was big and had ability to cover the floor and could handle the ball well. He was selected on the all-county team in the Moultrie County Tournament. This being his last year his successor will have a good record to maintain.

ERNEST JONES, '24, Guard.

Ernie played in hard luck the first of the season but he soon recovered and became a valuable reserve. He was reliable and conscientious, two prime requisites for a good player. His work in the Findlay game was especially commendable.

THE OTHERS

Otto Tietze, Kenneth Boling, Raymond Robertson, Clark Storm, Ralph Robertson and Lawrence Gray had a great deal to do with the building of the team. Boling, Storm and Ray Robertson will not be available next year but much is expected of the remaining three.

OUR YELL LEADERS

The Windsor high school showed good judgment in the selection of the yell leaders this year when Neva Rankin, with Carlyle Simmons as assistant, was chosen. They, assisted by many faithful rooters, gave the team strong support. Neva is a Senior and her place will be hard to fill.

TRACK AND FIELD

In 1923 we had a successful track season, winning the county meet and losing to Neoga in a dual meet by 7 points. Duncan garnered two medals at Charleston.

PROSPECTS

Early practice is hindered on account of the bad weather but it is thought that around Duncan, Robertson and Hamilton a strong team can be developed. As yet no dual meets have been scheduled.

NEOGA MEET, 1923

Neoga 62.

Windsor 55.

Windsor won first in the field, while Neoga won first on the track. Windsor was handicapped by the illness of Robertson, who always came in in good time in the dashes. The results were as follows:

50 Yard Dash: 1st Powell, N.; 2d Duncan, W.; 3d Bence, W. Time 5 3-5.

High Jump: Duncan, Ray Robertson, Hamilton, and Abel all of Windsor tied for first. Height 5 feet 4 inches.

Half Mile: 1st White, N.; 2d Grider, W.; 3d Seidler, N. Time 2:21 3-5.

Broad Jump: 1st Duncan, W.; 2d Ray Robertson, W.; 3d Storm, N. Distance 18 feet 11 inches.

220 Yard Dash: 1st Powell, N.; 2d Conlinson, N.; 3d Jones, W. Time 26 3-5.

Shot: 1st Duncan, W.; 2d Bigler, N.; 3d Grider, W. Distance 35 feet, 8 inches.

440 Yard Dash: 1st Conlinson, N.; 2d Bigler, N.; 3d Grider, W. Time 57 3-5.

Discus: 1st Schneiderjohn, N.; 2d Bigler, N.; 3d Grider, W. Distance 85 feet, 3 inches.

100 Yard Dash: 1st Powell, N.; 2d Conlinson, N.; 3d Bence, W. Time 11 3-5.

Javelin: 1st Grider, W.; 2d Schneiderjohn, N.; 3d Bigler, N. Distance 120 feet, 6 inches.

Pole Vault: 1st Duncan, W.; Ray Robertson, W., and Powell, N., tied for second. Height 9 feet, 6 inches.

Mile: 1st White, N.; 2d Rose, W.; 3d Ralph Robertson, W. Time 5 minutes, 11 seconds.

Hurdles: 1st Ira Jones, W.; 2d Storm, N.; 3d Bigler, N. Time 31 seconds.

Four Windsor men tied for first in high jump at 5 feet, 4 inches.

Paul Duncan scored 3 firsts, a tie for first in the high jump, and one second, for a total of 20 $\frac{1}{4}$ points.

THE SHELBY COUNTY MEET, 1923.

Windsor 39.

Shelbyville 26.

Findlay 20.

Cowden 5.

In May our track team went to Shelbyville to take part in the county meet. Windsor won first the year before and of course wished to keep up her record.

With Duncan, Hamilton and Robertson striving very hard, Windsor came out on top with a score of 39. Thus being permitted to keep the cup offered by H. D. Sparks the year before.

50 Yard Dash: Archie, Shelbyville, 1st; Perkins, Cowden, 2d; Hamilton, Windsor, 3d. 5 4-5 seconds.

THE U. OF I. INTERSCHOLASTIC

A team was taken to the state meet but no points were won.

CHARLESTON MEET, 1923

Duncan was the only Windsor man to bring back any medals. He tied for third in the high jump and got fourth in the pole vault.

THE FALL OF THE MIGHTY

Time—In the evening.

Place—Miss Smith's room.

Characters:

The heroine—Miss Smith.

The villain—Miss Gustafson.

Other female members of the high school faculty.

(A quarrel has arisen over the athletic prowess of the ladies. Miss Gustafson is so boastful of her ability.)

Miss Gustafson—"I just wish I had been born a man, I bet I would have made a great wrestler. Why I even believe I could conquer some men."

Miss Smith—"Oh, how you must hate yourself. But you are wrong. You can't even throw me, despite my handicap of short windedness."

Miss G.—"Oh, go on. If I couldn't throw you with one hand, I'd go jump in the furnace."

Miss S.—"Come on then, Skinney, come forward to your fate."

Miss G.—(leaping forward) "Defend yourself then."

(They struggle and Miss Smith is thrown.)

Miss S.—(wailing) "Oh, if I had not only stumbled." (An excuse.)

Miss G.—(with one foot placed on Miss Smith's chest.) "This to the tyrant autocrat, and to celebrate the fall of the mighty."

ORCHESTRA

And again our high school orchestra was a decided success under the able direction of Mr. Ready. It has added to the pleasure of many occasions in the old gym. Its music never failed to bring forth lots of applause from the audience. It is hoped that next year more students will find time to devote to this organization.

Gaylord—"How can I keep my toes from going to sleep?"

Clark—"Don't let them turn in."

GLEE CLUBS

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at almost any hour of the day, the ears of the students in the assembly are smitten with the sounds of sweet melody that come wafting their way up the stairs, through the windows and through any sizable crack in the floor. These same strains are coming from the throats of some of our own little "playmates;" for on these days Miss Garvin and her music classes take their vocal gymnastics.

There are three different Glee Clubs, but that's all right. You know variety is the spice of life.

The youngest Glee Club is the Freshmen-Sophomore girls. Their quaveringly sweet, young voices are beginning to steady themselves a little, and their future promises to be as great as the Junior-Senior girls have been this year.

These aforementioned Junior-Senior girls, after their three and four respective years of training (which was quite strenuous at times, judging from the sound) are almost all prospective prima donnas.

Last, but not least, comes Miss Garvin's pride and joy, the Boys' Glee Club. There is quite a collection of tenors, baritones, and basses in their bunch.

The combined clubs gave one concert and on April third gave The Pioneer's Papoose, an Indian operetta. The cast was:

Pioneer	Lawrence Gray
Prince Whiteface	Russell Boling
Chief Tomahawk	Glenn Bennett
Layemout	Carl Linder
Lightfoot	Paul Herron
Messenger	Rolla Bayless
Waltzie	Hazel Clawson
Bowbright	Daisy Rankin
Starshine	Opal Jackson
Moonfair	Ruth Cecil
Lillamush	Mildred Clem
Chorus of Braves	Boys' Glee Club
Chorus of Indian Maidens	Girl's Glee Club

- Wanted: A school of modest girls.—Miss Hartman.
- Wanted: Free Lyceum tickets.—Miss Smith and Miss Flachtemier.

FORTY MINUTES IN ENGLISH

Cast: Afternoon section of English IV.

Time of playing: Forty minutes.

Scene: Class room; seniors in their respective seats; jabbering by all; bell rings; seniors quiet down and Miss Bake begins discussion of "House of Seven Gables."

Miss B. (leaning comfortably back in her chair)—"Hazel, what can you tell of Hepzibah's finances?"

Hazel (taken unawares)—"Why 'ere she was poor—a man offered to take her and—" (trails off out of reach of auditory nerves.)

Miss B.: "All right! Robert, what about the chickens?"

Robert: "Well, there was an old man—er, that's the way the author described it—and he had two wives—" (stops. Giggles from class.)

Russel waves hands nervously in air.

Miss Bake: "What is it Russel?"

Russel: "I don't like the book. The print is so fine that when I go to read it at night I get so sleepy that I have to go to bed." (Class nods heads in agreement.)

Miss Bake: "Maybe you could find a book with larger—"

Lottie and Frances: "The House of Seven Gables and Scarlet Letter are awful." (Both bob heads furiously to give meaning to words.)

Thelma and Lucille (rising angrily from their seats like Indian warriors going forth to battle): "All of Hawthorne's works are so fine." (Especial emphasis on fine.)

Miss Bake: "I read the book ten years ago when I was as old as you."

Russel: "How old do you think we are? If a person read very many books like this they sure would be old."

Thelma: "I read this book when I was nine years old and I don't know as I am any older over it."

Russel (looking back at her): "Humph! Bet you didn't get any sense out of it."

Thelma (rather low): "Oh, I guess I did."

Robert: "I can get about as much sense out of this by reading it backwards." (Restrained laughter becomes uncontrollable.)

Bell rings.

Miss Bake: "You'd better study your lesson for tomorrow."

FRESHMAN INITIATION

The first of the social activities in the W. C. H. S. was the initiating of the Freshmen into the ways of this wicked world, by the sophisticated Sophomores.

The poor innocents came to the gymnasium on Friday night, September 17th. But be it said to their credit that they were nearly all here, proving that they were all blessed with dauntless courage.

After an evening of torments and tortures they were quite ready to go home.

That is, they went home after the Sophomores had

"Fed them some broth without any bread,
And spanked them all soundly,
And sent them to bed."

WIENER ROAST

Some of the enterprising young men of the W. C. H. S. planned a wiener roast to be in Lovins' pasture. They showed their generosity by inviting the whole school. The school showed their generosity by going and taking wieners, marshmallows and buns.

The "eats" didn't last very long so the crowd didn't either. Everyone left rather early and came back to town to go to the show or anywhere else they happened to think of that was within the radius of fifteen miles. It was at this gathering that Miss Bake was taken snipe hunting.

BASKET BALL CONTEST PARTY

The winning side of the basket-ball-ticket-contest, led by Vivian Edwards and Corwin Hamilton, was given a party in November in the gymnasium.

All sorts of "kid" games and a few others were played. The winning side however was treated with great respect and given a place all to themselves.

The refreshments were sandwiches, cake and cocoa.

JUNIOR CLASS PARTY

The Juniors, having grown tired of the hum-drum life of school, had a little party all their own on the night of January 9th.

Miss Gustafson and Mr. Dunsecomb "chaperoned" the bunch.

It was said to be an unusually successful party and every one had an unusually good time. But isn't it only natural that a bunch of Juniors could have a good time? Especially when they could eat fruit salad, sandwiches and cake to their heart's content.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET, 1923

The Junior-Senior banquet given on May 6th, 1923, to the "sober Seniors" and "faultless Faculty" was one of the most sumptuous affairs of the season.

The decorations were lovely. The idea of a Japanese garden was carried out through the evening, in the menu, programme 'never'thing.

The Seniors said it was the best banquet the Juniors had ever given them.

SENIOR LEAP YEAR PARTY

We Senior girls decided to show the Senior boys how real courting is done in leap year, so we invited them to a party on Feb. 6th. Nearly everyone accepted, although several seemed to think they knew all about the question at hand and stayed peacefully at home.

We took a chance and drew names for partners to escort to the school house. After we had drawn names we marched bravely into Rose's Restaurant and rushed the wild-eyed young men to the school house. In spite of Miss Bake's frequent admonition to them to at least act like ladies, they frequently forgot themselves.

1924

S

Pow-Wow

To make a long story shorter, after we had arrived at the school house safely, we arranged ourselves in a circle in the middle of the floor. We talked over with all of the boys such questions as "Who should get breakfast every morning, you or me?" and "How often would you expect your relation to come and visit you?" and "How many nights a week would you expect to be away from home." No serious disputes arose and this went off peaceably.

After they were given a lesson in "spooning" while eating pink ice cream hearts and cake, they were each given a diploma. These diplomas certified that the boys had been given a degree in "necking" from the "Petting School."

We hope the boys profited by the lessons given.

SOPHOMORE VALENTINE PARTY

On the Saturday night after Saint Valentine's Day, the Sophomores had a little party all their own.

Miss Hartman had planned the games and the feed. And, oh! That feed. They said they had more fun at eating than at anything else, but none of them could quite remember what they did have to eat.

There was quite a shortage of boys so it made the contests (such as The Heart Hunt) more thrilling. However they all were proud of themselves for having such a party, as well they might be.

BASKET BALL PARTIES

—1—

The Basket Ball boys were "fed up" on oyster soup at Mr. and Mrs. Dean Garrett's on Tuesday night after the Findlay game. Ernie Jones showed inclinations of turning to an oyster before the evening was over. Everyone enjoyed themselves, however.

—2—

After the glorious victory in the Moultrie County Tournament, Mrs. Garrett again entertained the boys by giving them a chicken supper. From all appearances this was the most entertaining thing that could be done.

—3—

Although a former Pana-ite, Rusty Neal showed his appreciation of Windsor's superior team by giving them a banquet at Rose's Restaurant a few days after the Pana victory.

—4—

Mrs. Roy Bowen invited the team to a waffle supper at their home on March 12th. This change of diet was duly appreciated, as was plainly shown by the score they ran up—of waffles. They used the best team work of all the season. After supper they played cards and had some music.

COACH'S BANQUET

Joseph Dunscomb, the proud coach of the noted Windsor basket ball team, invited them and the yell leader, Neva Rankin, to a banquet at his home on March 29th. Eleven of the squad were there but the twelfth, "Big Cackle" Robertson, was entirely too much "puffed up" with mumps, to associate with the others.

Mrs. Dunscomb, with the help of two of the Senior girls, viz. Genevieve Edwards and Ruth Walker, served an excellent three course dinner.

After dinner they spent the rest of the evening in talking, playing games and maybe gossiping a little. You never can tell.

DINNER DANCE

To quote Casey, the captain of the team, "It was honestly just like the movies." The "it" he referred to was the dinner dance given in Munson's hall by some of the business men's wives on April Fool's night. Casey was right. Although I think they all enjoyed the real thing more than if they had only seen it in the movies. Even Patterson and Jones were induced to "trip the light fantastic" from 7:00 o'clock until 12:00.

W

The dancers all had to wear paper dunce caps of blue and gold. The decorations were of blue and gold also.

BUSINESS MEN'S BANQUET

Not to be out-done by the fairer and weaker sex, the business men got up a banquet for the basket ball boys, the coach and the yell leader, Neva Rankin. This was given at the M. E. church. The Methodist ladies were given the honor of displaying their culinary achievements, and about one hundred and ten of the population of Windsor were given the honor of devouring these said achievements.

The girls of the Anti-Can't and Booster classes did the serving.

THEATRE PARTIES

The boys were several times the guests of W. B. Richards at the Electric Theatre. The "little boy" has been more often the guest, however, than the other eleven.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET, 1924

Some time in May, I know not when (but speed the day!) the Juniors are going to give the graduating class of '24 a banquet which they are striving to make a more pronounced success than the one in '23.

Success to them! They will deserve it.

—H. J. R.

FRESHMAN PARTY

Sufficient unto themselves, the Freshmen, under chaperonage of Miss Flachtemeier, Miss Smith and Miss Hartman, had a party in the gymnasium.

They played games awhile, had a wonderful time, and ate ice cream and cake. 'Nuff sed.

What Did You See?

One of the high school teachers saw a Sophomore boy and a Freshman girl, who were very much in love, enjoying an innocent kiss, at the foot of the stairs.

Immediately after the lecture on reforms Eugene Jackson and Evelyn Janes were seen sitting within arm's length.

J. G. saw two men arrive on a western bound freight train. The men were affectionately received by a feminine member of the high school faculty.

Everyone saw the notice on the bulletin board which read: "Harold Nichols, dealer in hugs and kisses; one trial is convincing."

Immediately after the measurement for caps and gowns, someone saw Maude Storm come in and look up Omaha Barnett's measurements.

Miss Flachtemeier (in History)—"You can use your notes this time, but I want you to learn to talk out of your heads as soon as possible."

Marie—"IvaDean has such a pretty ring."

Bertha—"Yes, she has. You can get two of those rings for a quarter and still have a nickel left."

Alva Patterson—"What set are you on in Bookkeeping, Milton?"

Don Walden—"I'm on set still."

Those Poor Men!

Frances—"What is your opinion of these women who imitate men?"

Robert—"They're idiots."

Frances—"Well, then the imitation is a success."

Before Exams

Lord God of Hosts was with us not;
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

After Exams

Lord God of Hosts, be with us not;
For we forgot, for we forgot!

Inquisitiveness

Miss Smith—"Don't ask so many questions, Carlyle. Curiosity killed a cat."

Carlyle—"What did the cat want to know?"

Eugene (John E. had just fallen off a chair)—"Did you fall, John?"

John—"No. I just leaned over to pick a strawberry."

Cobert—"Do you know what I can do to make these shoes quit squeaking?"

Ruth C.—"Sure. Take them off."

Personal

Hazel—"I'm going to sue Miss Bake for libel."

Clara S.—"What for? What has she done?"

Hazel—"She wrote on my English theme, 'You have bad relatives and antecedents.'"

Corwin (starting on a new chapter)—"What does LXX stand for?"

Genevieve—"Love and kisses, of course."

Mr. Ready—"That was a good recitation, Lucile. Has anybody anything to add on the life of Clay?"

Russell Boling—"Yes. He died."

Opal Walker—"What made the tower of Pisa lean?"

Maud Storm—"I don't know. If I did I'd take some myself."

Miss Smith (with Bryan Smith by the collar)—"I believe Satan himself has got a hold of you."

Bryan—"I believe so myself."

Opal Jackson—I am continually breaking into a song."

Edward Webb—"If you'd ever get the key, you wouldn't have to break in."

Doris Hartsell—"Yesterday was Longfellow's birthday and another long fellow's birthday."

Beulah Gordon—"Is Theodore's name Longfellow?"

Doris—"No, but he is a long fellow."

Miss Hartman—"Translate this: boni legas Caesaris."

Velma—"The bony legs of Caesar."

Iva Dean—"I heard a woman singing, 'I would I were a bird.' A man in the audience said, 'I would you were a box of axle grease.'"

Omaha F.—"What did the man mean by saying a box of axle grease?"

Juanita—"Well, you know axle grease stops screeching."

The Verbalist

Alva saw a girl walking down the street. She was of course feminine. As she was singular he became nominative. He walked across to her. As she was not objective they became plural. They walked home together. Her mother was accusative, and he became imperative. Her brother was an indefinite article. Her sister was demonstrative. He began talking of the future and she changed the subject. He kissed her and she became objective. Her father was present and Alva became a past participle.

Mr. Dunscomb—"Which is the most attractive, a ten-cent store window display or a display of ladies ready-to-wear garments?"

Casey Duncan—"I never stop to look at a ten-cent store window."

Virginia (picking up lemon squeezer)—"Where does this squeezer go?"

Orna—"In the parlor."

Miss Bake—"What kind of a word is measles?"

Clarence—"Contagious."

ACHIEVEMENT

The goal of every ambitious man and firm is typified in the rapid growth of the Jain & Ollier Engraving Company—the universal esteem in which their art and plates are held by the large national advertisers—and the enviable reputation for prompt deliveries which they enjoy.

Delivering this same high quality and careful personal supervision to schools has built up for us the largest college and high school annual engraving business in America—400 books yearly.

Thirty thousand square feet of floor space (4 floors) and over two hundred and fifty skilled employees are required to meet the constant demand for "J&O" commercial photographs, art, color process plates and photo engraving (one complete floor is devoted to color process work).

Intelligent supervision of all work by many skilled office service men eliminates your troubles. Sales service men sent everywhere.

Getting the Right Start in Life

Bring in your little folks and open an account for each of them. Thus with modest deposits you can instill in them a habit of untold benefit to them. Saving helps make happy, prosperous and successful lives. But a child may never find this out, may never taste the good fruits of thrift, unless at an early age he has wise guidance from prudent parents.
